To whom it may concern,

Ivan Djomegni was selected in the Spring of 2019 as an intern to design and create us a new website and transfer the current content onto it. Ivan was professional, organized, efficient and helpful throughout the entire process. He was patient with our organization getting the content and ideas to him, but when we did, he was extremely quick at responding and getting the task done. When it was time to hand the website back over to us, he was extremely helpful in creating tips, answering our questions and teaching us how to update and manage it.

I would highly recommend Ivan for any website and IT related position. He possesses a skill set, work ethic and disposition that would benefit any organization.
